17TH DISTRICT, CALIFORNIA

Greetings from Congressman Michael M. Honda to National Council of Jewish Women San Francisco on the Occasion of the 2015 Annual Awards Luncheon

May 31, 2015

It gives me great pleasure to welcome everyone to the 2015 Annual Awards Luncheon hosted by National Council of Jewish Woman San Francisco (NCJW).

Since 1900, NCJW has strived for social justice by improving the quality of life for women, children, and families by safeguarding individual rights and freedoms. Inspired by Jewish values, NCJW has championed the needs of these groups while courageously taking a progressive stance on issues such as child welfare, women's rights, and reproductive freedom. NCJW embraces women of diverse backgrounds, ideologies, and practices who want to make a difference at the local, national and global levels.

Today's event honors those individuals who have contributed to NCJW's vision of improving quality of life for women, children, and families while working to ensure individual rights and freedoms.

On behalf of the residents of the 17th Congressional District, I thank National Council of Jewish Women San Francisco for organizing today's event and offer my best wishes for its success.

Sincerely,

Michael M. Honda
Member of Congress
